

Researchers surveyed 162 people with vision disabilities who use banking or financial apps and websites. They found that more than 3 out of 5 people had been unable to use a financial website or app because of an accessibility barrier.